

ERISA FIDELITY BOND COVERAGE

OVERVIEW

In 1974, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) was enacted to address concern that the assets of private pension plans were being mishandled and at times criminally converted to improper uses. ERISA was the apex of a long line of legislation concerned with the labor and tax issues of employee benefit plans. The fundamental purpose of the Act is to create civil enforcement provisions aimed at assuring that plan assets are properly protected and that participants in those plans receive the promised benefits. ERISA section 412 and its sister regulations (29 C.F.R. § 2550.412-1 and 29 C.F.R. Part 2580) require that every fiduciary of an employee benefit plan and every person who handles the assets of such a plan be covered by an ERISA fidelity bond. The ERISA bond must be equal to no less than ten percent (10%) of the amount of assets in the plan where those assets are “qualified”. Non-qualified assets require fidelity bonding of one hundred percent (100%) of the asset total. The maximum bond amount required under ERISA with respect to any one plan is generally $500,000 however, the maximum required ERISA bond amount is $1,000,000 for plans that hold employer-issued securities (ESOPs).

SURETY ONE’S ERISA BOND ADVANTAGES

- Fidelity bonds issued on U.S. Treasury listed companies acceptable for all federal bond obligations
- Three-year bond term at reasonable rates
- Automatic expansion (increase) of coverage limit as plan assets grow in value at no extra charge.
- Department of Labor approved ERISA fidelity bond format
- Automatic renewal every three years without fidelity underwriting for policies with no losses
